

TECO Partners makes it possible

for large organizations and enterprises to streamline the process for identifying and securing utility rebates across North America.

Our experts work with more than 250 rebate administrators, including electric and gas utilities, statewide programs, third-party implementers, and manufacturers that offer incentives in the US and Canada. When we are introduced into a project early in the scope development, we work with our clients to understand all equipment and appliance options and the optimum energy-efficiency measures available. You'll understand the stretch between the equipment choices that qualify for the best incentives and your current situation or proposed scope -- all without disrupting current or future operations.

We're a link in the value chain with key leadership in industry organizations that affect new research and development. We also work with our national accounts to influence the creation of custom rebates.

Q: What exactly does TECO Partners do to procure rebates on a client's behalf?

A: Our work in rebate processing started nearly 10 years ago with the development of a proprietary database of available rebate programs throughout North America. The database is constantly updated to reflect the most current incentives available, including program requirements, contact information, and applicable forms to qualify.

When working with a client, TECO Partners performs exhaustive due diligence both on the goals and objectives of the organization, the best equipment applications for identified project(s), and the highest level of incentive available.

We work tirelessly to apply for, track and acquire all rebates, and communicate along the way. As the liaison with the various rebate administrators, we ensure the application of the rebate programs meet deadlines and specific organizational needs. Bottom line is you get the rebates due to you.

Q: What types of utility rebates do we secure?

A: We help secure rebates for new construction and renovation/replacement projects that include whole building changes, prescriptive measures, renewables, lighting, HVAC and custom modifications.

Q: How does TECO Partners get paid for the service?

A: We collect a small percentage on the value of the rebate only if we secure the incentives, so we are motivated to not only identify but fully realize all possible rebate dollars on your behalf. We have no hidden fees or charges, and we are the most competitive partner in the marketplace.

Q: Who benefits the most from our rebate processing services?

A: We serve single-family and multifamily builders, hospitals, public housing, senior living facilities, municipalities, restaurants, Big Box and chain retailers, and manufacturing facilities. If your business includes multiple sites with numerous utility providers and accounts, our services can help.
